Bill Hill Receives Hero's Award

Bill Hill, a Carmel Fire Department volunteer, yesterday was awarded a bronze medal by the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission for his daring rescue of Martha E. Jackson last year from the turbulent surf off Stewart's Beach.

In addition to the medal, Hill will receive a $750 check.

Mrs. Jackson of Stockton was walking the beach when a giant wave dragged her out to sea. Hill arrived on the scene with his surfboard and daringly combatted the surf to reach her 700 feet out. He stayed with her until Navy helicopters and divers rescued them both from the stormy sea.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Mr. Cook:

On January 30 the Annual Carmel Citizens' Committee Town Meeting was held and although a very rainy night, sixty or more citizens turned out for an outstanding meeting on Carmel's problems.

Much of the discussion centered on the two zoning changes—one for Sunset Center, and the other for the dozen or so inns and motels in Carmel's residential zoning area. Mayor Grant, Councilmen Blanks, Whittlesey and Norberg and City Administrator Hugh Bayless participated in the discussion, which did much to clarify for those present the reasons and the needs for those two zoning changes.

The Sunset Zoning is designed to legitimize what is going on at Sunset Center, the conversion of a former high school, in poor condition, into a Cultural and Recreational Center for the benefit of all citizens of Carmel.

The motel, or better, the transient quarters zoning was designed to recognize the existence of these places which have grown up that way through the years by people taking advantage of zoning loopholes or lack of enforcement. The zoning change is designed to prevent any expansion of these motels or inns in the R1 residential area.

It is unfortunate that a few words of the zoning language appeared somewhat unclear. However, it appears quite clear what the ordinance intends; no more expansion in the R1 zone. A few simple amendments would correct any conflict of interpretation.

Unfortunately, Carmel citizens seem to be confused, or have been misled. One lady came into the meeting last night thinking it was a Sierra Club meeting, and asked—"is this the meeting where they are discussing high rise buildings in Carmel?"

Also, during the meeting Admiral Fisher stressed the need for people to become properly informed and asked for a show of hands for those who had read the two ordinances. Only one quarter of those in attendance had.

Carmel's unpaid Councilmen, Planning Commissioners and Sunset Commissioners, City Administrator Bayless and Carmel City Managers, have put in long hard hours studying these problems. It is hoped that the usual calm attitude of Carmel citizens will replace the charged emotionalism, and that Carmel citizens will rally to the support of their representatives who deserve heartfelt thanks for their dedicated services.

Holdup Under Street Lights

Josephine R. Root, once called Carmel's Joan of Arc because she threatened to stand before the freeway bulldozers, and famous for her 13 cats, was held up in the middle of the new street lights in front of Sunset Auditorium Friday night about 8 o'clock.

She struggled to hold the reed bag with two handles which hung over her arm, but the youth snatched it and threw her into the street. She landed on her knees, suffering cuts and bruises, and screamed hard and long. But no one heard her. She looked up to see the youth running down Ninth toward the ocean.

Mrs. Root, whose lovely face is framed by white hair, and who spent four months in the hospital last year following surgery, is concerned about the address book, personal papers, and antique pin which the bag contained.

She is down to three cats.

Sunset Books Guitarists

The City of Carmel through its Sunset Manager and Cultural Commission will present the internationally famous guitarists Los Indios Tabajaras at the Sunset Theatre on Sunday February 11 at 8:30 p.m.

Los Indios Tabajaras, two of 30 children born to Chief Mitanga of the Tabajaras Tribe in Ceara, Brazil, have recently completed a SRO globe-circling tour which included Japan, The Orient, and Europe, concluding with a final appearance at the famous San Remo Festival.

They have appeared on such TV programs as the Jack Paar Show, The Ed Sullivan Show and five times on the Johnny Carson "Tonight" Show. For reservations call Sunset Center Box Office, 624-9892.

RLS to Expand

Ground-breaking ceremonies for the construction of two new buildings on the Robert Louis Stevenson School campus will be held Friday afternoon at 3:30.

The ceremony marks the beginning of the construction of a five-unit academic quadrangle. Work will begin immediately on the Samuel F. B. Morse Fine Arts Center and the new library.

The three additional buildings which complete the complex are a science building, a classroom building and an auditorium.

The Fine Arts Center is the first building to be named for the chairman of the Del Monte Properties Company. If his health permits, Morse himself will attend the informal ceremonies at the school.

Participating in the ceremony will be Robert U. Ricklefs, founder and headmaster of the Robert Louis Stevenson School, and Claude Wynn, student body president.

The construction schedule for the building program calls for the Morse Fine Arts Center and the library to be completed by the opening of the 1968-69 school year. Rosewall and Sons, Inc. of Watsonville has been awarded the contract for the first two buildings.

The development program comes at the completion of a successful $1.2 million fund drive planned in 1964 by the school's Board of Directors and Advisory Council. The drive was needed to finish the campus buildings, expand faculty salaries, provide scholarships and a retirement program

Police Property Sold for $90,000

After a special meeting of the City Council Friday afternoon, the sale of the old Police Station property has been approved. The total sale price of the two lots involved amounted to $90,000, $45,000 of which is payable in escrow and the remainder due in one year with seven per cent interest.

Citizens' Committee Endorses Motel & Sunset Ordinances

At the Carmel Citizens' Committee meeting Colonel Yale, a proponent of abolishing the property tax, gave a five-minute discussion and outlined the state-wide program to get a million signatures on a petition to do away with the property tax. He asked for support of the Citizens' Committee.

Admiral Fisher gave a brief report of the progress the committee made during 1967, including recommendations to the City Council on such various matters as the Sunset and Motel Rezoning ordinances.

On hand at the Citizens' Committee town meeting were: Carmel Mayor Steve Grant, Councilmen Gunnar Norberg, Eben Whittlesey, Herbert Blanks, and City Administrator Hugh Bayless.

Following Admiral Fisher's remarks, Councilman Norberg gave a prolonged discussion of his activities as a Councilman. Councilman Blanks was visably disturbed at Norberg's statements concerning the expansion of the number of Planning employees, among other things. Blanks said that enforcement with one man, as was the case several years before, was nothing to speak of and that if the city was to enforce building codes the additions were necessary.

Captain Frank Falge, a Cultural Commission member, Board member of the Citizens' Committee, and a nominee for the Council, rose to give his views for the necessity of these two ordinances: to legitimize Sunset operations and to prevent any further expansion of transient quarters.

There was considerable discussion about the language of the motel ordinance, but it was brought out that it (the ordinance) specifically states that there will be no expansion of these quarters in the R-1 District. The committee felt that the word "addition," which appears several times in the ordinance, could be misinterpreted and should be replaced with the word "construction." Councilman Herb Blanks said he would support such a change.

Eben Whittlesey spoke out in defense of the needs of the zoning law for the transient quarters, which would be enforcable.

Admiral Fisher summed up the various views and entertained comments from the citizens. At their request the Committee reviewed the two letters of recommendations by the board of directors on the zoning ordinances.

The Admiral stated that the board was strongly in support of the ordinances with the hope that the minor amendments to correct wording would be made.

Fire Department Deserves Applause

A congratulatory hand is extended to the men of the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department who answered a total of 692 calls during 1967.

Obtained from the annual report submitted by the Fire Department, of these 692 calls, 384 were emergency ambulance and first aid calls. The 344 fire calls showed an increase of 72 calls over the previous year, and yet there was a decrease in the amount of damage reported.

During the year, these gallant volunteers attended 20 two-hour fire drills, all in the interest of the citizens they are protecting. Many of the men attended other classes to gain a better knowledge of fire fighting.

These men were called out during the night on at least 50 per cent of the calls received by the Department.

Theatre Review

CARMEN BABY, A blatant group of depraved unknowns go through their paces with great enthusiasm. Must be fun to make these films. Undoubtedly more fun making than seeing.

THOROUGHLY MODERN MILLIE. Carol Channing steals the show playing an eccentric wealthy widow. But also around to help in this comedy of the 1920's are Julie Andrews, who is delightful, James Fox, Bea Lillie and John Garvin. Although the direction, unfortunately, is unimaginative, and the script lacks wit, the whole show is extremely goodnatured.

Automobiles

(Formerly AUCTION CITY AUTO SALES)

Bud Marshall started business December 1955. He and his partner boasted a Grand Total of $600.00. The lot was sand and weeds. The office, an old 10 by 12 hot dog stand. Their lighting was a discarded string of Christmas Tree lights from the city of San Jose, and their desk and 3 chairs cost $5.50 from a used furniture store.

The property was purchased October 1963, remodeled December 1963, and in May 1964, Bud Marshall bought out his partner. Auction City Auto Sales was a suitable name when the cars were pre-war vintage, but not for the Clean, Late Models in inventory today.

Bud Marshall has the Nicest, Most Modern, Independent Automobile Agency on The Monterey Peninsula, and pride of ownership was the deciding factor in choosing our new name —Bud Marshall Automobiles. This is why we say, "'We're the newest —we're the oldest, and w think we're the greatest!"

REPORTS FROM RLS

By Chandler Meloy

Several administrators and members of the faculty attended the Northern California Regional meeting of the California Association of Independent Schools in San Francisco recently. Headmaster Robert U. Ricklefs is president of the CAIS.

Topics like "Sex Education in Independent Schools," "Inner Resources for Survival in College," "Student Attitudes Towards the New Morality, Religion, War, Peace and Racial Strife," were discussed.

February is "The Crucial" month with varsity and Frosh-Soph having good chance for second place in the league.

Varsity won its third game with Pescadero, 72-50 this week. Jeff Erlandson led the fast break for R.L.S. with 13 points. Jon Cann sank 19 points to keep his 20 point average intact, while Mike Greene and Eric Paulsen added a dozen points each.

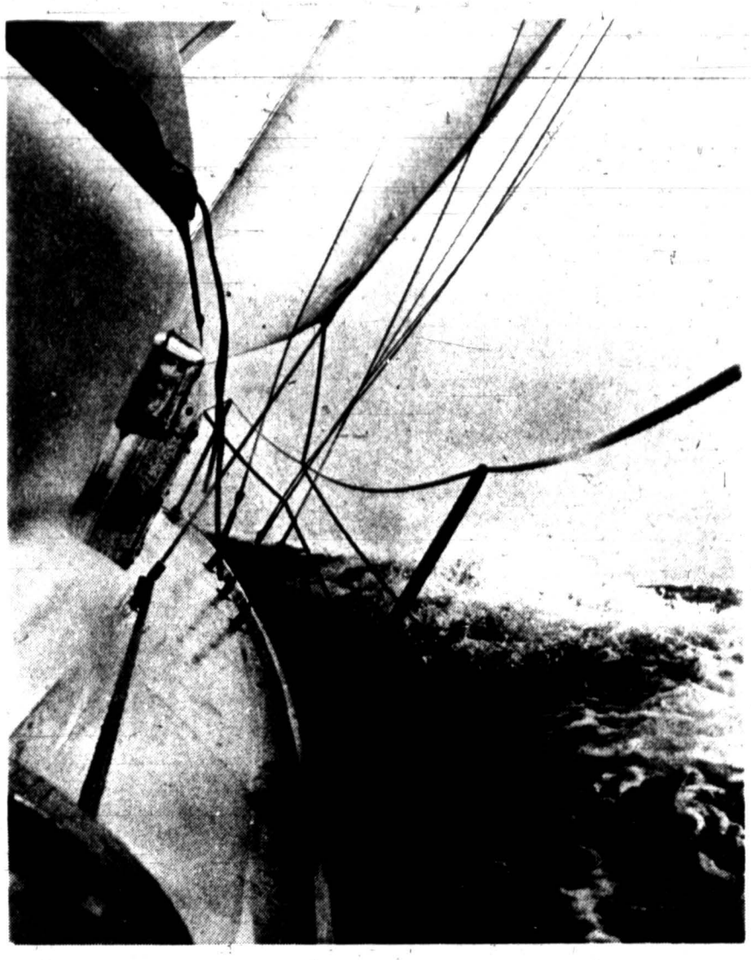
Frosh-Soph, Cmdr. Kinion's "Kats", mauled Pescadero 54-24, led by Willis Cook who went on a scoring spree of 21.

Junior Varsity, ending their season, lost to York a second time earlier in the week, but took Carmel JV for the third time. Mike Eberly, Gordon Bradley and Eric Hass shared a fine season under Coach Zury.

Speech Contests

Freshmen Arlen Chase and Rick Johnson represented R.L.S. in the Gonzales Student Congress last Saturday, with Rick placing 5th out of 75. Bruce Decker took a third in the American Legion regional contest (state quarter-finals).

Hawaii Lures Boating Enthusiasts



The prow of a 30-foot sloop surges through the Molokai channel between Honolulu on Oahu island and Lahaina on Maui in the Hawaiian Islands. The picture was taken by Pamela Sanders who is "holed up" in Carmel Highlands while she is writing a book. Pam spent three years in Vietnam and Laos where she was a correspondent for Time and Life magazines.

Dogs Can Become Neurotic

Since the age of four months a responsibility of Pee Wee Van Blarcom, a blonde cocker spaniel, has been to fetch the morning and evening paper. If the San Francisco newspaper strike doesn't end soon deep analysis appears in order. Searching under cars, ferreting among the shrubs or trying to filch a neighbor's morning paper has lead to utter frustration and near breakrown. Due to age, instigating a sit-in movement is not feasible, however, if a younger man wished to start such a movement to help end the strike, Pee Wee has indicated he will lend his complete support and advice.

Can a dog become neurotic? Yes. Dogs as well as humans are subject to frustrations. They can also become neurotic due to their owner's personality. Signs of emotional disorders include unresponsiveness, aggressiveness, melancholia, etc. Many behavior problems are due, however, to lack of training. Heredity is also a factor and too many dogs of unstable temperment are used as breeding stock. Canine psychiatry may help an emotionally disturbed dog; however, many times it is the owner who is in the most need of this help.

Puppies and pregnant bitches generally require supplemental calcium. Cottage cheese is an excellent source, however, calcium cannot be absorbed unless the diet contains sufficient vitamin D — BUT — an overdose of vitamin D can be dangerous. A good quality complete commercial diet will provide the needed quantities of required vitamins and minerals. An all meat diet is not a complete and balanced diet for your dog. Meat should be considered a supplement to a complete diet.—J. Wood.

Calendar of Art, Music and Theatre

Parisian artist Emil Leahner continues his one man show at Laky Gallery, exhibiting 25 of his paintings with emphasis on landscapes and abstracts. Lahner, in his 70's, is one of the oldest active artists in Paris. Above is his "Paysage De Bretagne"

June Foster Hass, sculptress stands beside her head of "Marty," Xavier Martinez, on display at the Carmel Museum of Art.

Helen Dooley's exhibit at the Seaside City Hall has been held over by popular demand. Helen Dooley stands beside one of her paintings at the City Hall. The public is invited to visit this exciting display.

Sculptress Wins First Prize

June Foster Hass met the early Carmel painter, Martinez, when she was a young student of Ralph Stackpole in the Bay area. It was Stackpole who did the stone bust of George Sterling also displayed at the Carmel Museum of Art. Mrs. Hass met Martinez through his daughter, Micaela Martinez Du Casse, herself a well-known painter.

June Hass' "Pieta", in stone, recently won first prize for sculpture, at the Religious Art Show at the Naval Post Graduate School which ends February 4. She also works in other media.

Mrs. Hass came to Carmel not too long ago following the death of her husband, Dr. Clarence Hass. She hopes to have a dream materialize when she can have a house built on the lot she has by the sea. Mark Mills, a pupil of Frank Lloyd Wright is designing it for her.

June may often be seen walking at Point Lobos with her beautiful Afghan hound . . . that is when she is not involved in her duties as board member of the Monterey Peninsula Chamber Music Society and volunteer at the Carmel Museum of Art. It was she who was responsible for the enchanting Christmas decorations at the museum.

Musicians on Canvas

During the next concert by the Monterey Peninsula Orchestra on February 6 the foyer will be hung with paintings and drawings by Louise Cardeiro Boyer. Mrs. Boyer has chosen for this occasion two groups related to music: paintings which are her impressions of musical compositions, among them Ravel's Ondine, and several of Debussy works painted during recent months while Gilbert Boyer, her husband, has been preparing and performing his series on Debusy. The other group consists of drawings made of musicians during rehearsals on the Peninsula.

RANDOM OBSERVATIONS: (a) It's hard to explain to kids why a nation that spends billions on nuclear bombs is trying to outlaw firecrackers. (b) One small boy to another "It might be unconstitutional, but I always pray before a test."

Is BMW a family car?

Well, let's see now. First off, BMW is one of the fastest cars in its class in the world. It will do well over 100 m.p.h., right out of a dealer's showroom, and people have been racing them—and winning—all over the U.S. and Europe.

What's more, BMW has fully independent suspension on all four wheels, and rally brakes.

At the same time, a BMW is a generously proportioned car that gives you full-sized comfort for four full-sized people. Or plenty of room for two adults and three kids. Then too, it has a big, roomy trunk that holds stacks of luggage, or groceries, or whatever.

Also, a BMW is extremely easy to handle, which makes it pretty popular with wives. It's a cinch to park.

Then there's economy. BMW is probably as trouble-free as anything you'll ever drive. It just goes and goes, with an absolute minimum of repairs. Which means it won't shake up a budget.

And while we're on the subject, how about 25 miles to a gallon of gas? BMW will give you that, and more.

So back to the question. Is BMW a family car? We think so. At the Bavarian Motor Works in Germany, we've been building fine automobiles for over 50 years, and we think today's BMW is the most versatile car there is. As you can see, it's the one car that has something for everybody.

Michael Rosenker, concertmaster and wife Kazuko

Fabulous Background of Concertmaster

The autographed photographs which line the walls of Michael Rosenker's and his wife Kazuko's apartment are filled with distinguished musicians.

In his class picture taken in Odessa, Russia, his birthplace, one also sees Jascha Heifetz, Mischa Elman and Nathan Milstein.

There are pictures of Rosenker performing as soloist under such eminent conductors as Pierre Monteux, Fritz Reiner, Charles Munch, Sir Adrian Boult, George Szell, Bruno Walter, Sir Thomas Beecham, Artur Rodzinski, Dmitri Mitropoulos and Rafael Kubelik.

Carmel will have the honor of hearing this man, Michael Rosenker, perform at the next concert of the Monterey County Symphony that will take place at Sunset Theatre on Tuesday evening, February 6 at 8:30. Mr. Rosenker will play the Tchaikovksy Concerto for Violin and Orchestra in D Major for his featured performance under conductor Jan de Jong.

Mr. Rosenker has been serving as concertmaster for the County Symphony since last July when he returned to this country from Japan where he had been with the Yomiuri Nippon Symphony in that capacity. He has also been the concertmaster for the New York Philharmonic, the Metropolitan Opera Orchestra, the Pittsburgh Symphony and the NBC Symphony.

It is the job of the concertmaster to assist the conductor by marking the bowings of the stringed instruments and to rehearse them. But his most important function is to serve as model for the strings. As such he emerges as a polished jewel with which the conductor adorns the music. We look forward to hearing him.

Choral Society Benefit

Photographers Dale Wilson and Roger Gibbon will present a program of the best of their slides of Escalante Canyon and the Southern Utah Wilderness at Brey Hall, Carmel High School, Friday, at 7:00 and 8:45 p.m.

These photographs, taken in May 1964 on a Sierra Club hi-lite trip through the little-known but unusually beautiful area now back of Glen Canyon Dam, show scenic gems such as the Cathedral of the Desert, Blind Canyon, great arches, Indian ruins and many others now covered by the waters of Lake Powell, never to be seen again.

The showing is given as a benefit to raise funds for Monterey Peninsula Choral Society. Voluntary contributions will be received.

Registrations are still being taken for singers for the Choral Society which meets Wednesday evenings at 7 p.m. at Fremont Junior High School, Kimball Avenue east of Fremont, Seaside. There is a special need for tenors and basses. Rehearsals are now in progress for Handel's "Messiah." Call Mrs. John Beahan, 624-2838, for further information.

Musical Comments

The Carmel Music Society audience was treated to an ingratiating performance by the young bass singer, Thomas Paul, well known here for his work in the Bach Festival.

Paul produces a gorgeous sustained tone with very little apparent effort. The songs by Handel provided him the opportunity to demonstrate both his tremendous control and his faultless German diction.

He was equally at ease with the Schubert lieder, ending this more lyrical group with the dramatic "Grupper Aus Dem Tartarus."

The power of his voice and his operatic ability came to the fore in a Verdi aria from "Don Carlo." and provided a change of pace.

Contemporary French impressionist Jacques Ibert contributed the fascinating Spanish rythms of "Four Songs for Don Quixote." Interesting harmonies, played with delicate artistry by accompanist John Wustman supported the singer.

The delightful "Balkan Song" by Gounod, humorous and vivacious, in the opera buffa style, was a pleasing encore on which to end a versatile performance which included folk songs and Tchaikovsky's "Pilgrim Song."

Thomas Paul sings with such warmth and intimacy. He is so at ease on the stage. It is impossible to find any flaws. M.H.

Reviews for Young Readers

By Allene Fremier

The special picture book for this week, I think, is BUFORD THE LITTLE BIGHORN written and illustrated by Bill Peet. Buford is a mountain sheep, "the one and only skier ever to grow his own skis." His horns are so long and heavy that they curve around back past his front legs. While running away from some hunters, he lands in the snow with his feet on the horns, and thus discovers the joys of skiing.

For the Buzzy Bear fans, another adventure is now on the shelf. This one is BUZZY BEAR'S WINTER PARTY, by Dorothy Marino. It is full of warmth and goodness (Buzzy is very, very good) and the illustrations are charming.

Another picture book, but more advanced and informative than the above two is LADYBUG, LADYBUG, FLY AWAY HOME, by Judy Hawes. This is a Let's-Read-and-Find-Out science book. It tells many interesting facts about our little friends —such as why they are called ladybugs and why we say "Ladybug, ladybug, fly away home. (You have to come in and read it yourself for the answer). It also gives illustrations of the parts of the body, its eating habits, and its methods of protection. A few interesting powers attributed to ladybugs might interest adults as well as children. For example, farmers used to believe that having ladybugs winter in their houses meant good weather and good crops to come. The daughters believed that if a ladybug walked across her hand, she would be married within the year. The farmers' wives believed that ladybugs cured toothache, colic and measles. Seen any ladybugs around lately?

For the slightly older readers there's lots of fun to look forward to in FROM THE MIXED-UP FILES OF MRS. BASIL E. FRANKWEILER, by E. L. Konigsburg. Don't be put off by the long title it's a delightful story of two runaway children who hide out for a week in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, cleverly evading the guards. Claudia, who is almost 12, plans the whole adventure, taking her nine-year-old brother Jamie along, mainly because he's a miser and would be sure to have money. They are charming children and they learn a few things before returning home.

Barbara Willard's latest book, THE RICHLEIGHS OF TANTAMOUNT, has a castle built on the Cornish coast as a setting for the four Richleigh children. The castle was built by their great-great-great-grandfather, and holds a secret from the past and the present, which the children discover. The suspense builds to a tense climax. The characterizations, the setting and the plot are excellent.

PARTY PLANS . . .

by Phyllis Jervey

'Have-a-Heart Hors d'Oeuvres'

Each February the Heart Fund Hors d'Oeuvre Party becomes more popular with Monterey Peninsulans. This Sunday (Feb. 4) it takes the form of a Mexican Fiesta with costumes, beverages, music and "bocados" (appetizers) carrying out the Mexican theme. Since California was Mexican from 1822 until 1848, it is a natural for us to "go Mexican" and that's just what Party Plans has planned! So, amateur entrants telephone to Tom Oliver, chairman of the cuisine competition, at 624-3811 for information. Also study these offerings and improve on them with your own special creativity. You may win a medal! Phyllis did two years ago.

Abalone Buenaventurra

One lb. fresh abalone; ½ cup fresh lime juice; 1 T. sugar; 1 T. light vegetable oil; ½ t., each, salt and onion powder; ¼ t. Accent; ¼ t. garlic powder; speck black pepper and cayenne; fresh parsley, paprika and lime slices for garnish. Serves 12.

Pound abalone until paper-thin; cut into bite-size pieces. Turn into a deep china or glass bowl. Combine rest of items (excepting garnishes) in jar with tightly-fitting lid. Shake well to blend. Pour over abalone, mix well, cover and refrigerate 24 hours. To serve use large polished abalone shells, garnish with parsley, paprika and lime slices. Pass bamboo picks.

Assorted Raw Vegetables

Assorted raw fresh vegetables on ice are seen more and more nowadays. Great bowls are filled with cracked ice and raw crisp vegetables of all kinds are presented on this shimmering bed. Very thinly sliced raw tender turnips, sweet red onion wedges, peeled cherry tomatoes, tiny lettuce hearts, young green cabbage and broccoli spears, peeled celery root cut into "bocaditos" (mouth-sized pieces) but first soaked in a little fresh lime juice to keep from discoloring; fenucchio, anise, zucchini, raw mushroom caps, cauliflowerettes, carrot sticks, tiny chili peppers and even pieces of raw white or sweet potatoes rolled in oil and chopped chives or parsley, are some of the nibblers so much the rage today. Have small bowls of dips such as:

Salsa: 2 cans tomato sauce; 2 T. peeled green chilies, chopped; 1 T. olive oil; ½ t., each, oregano and chili powder. Makes 1 pint. Frijoles Para Sopar (Bean Dip): 1 can red kidney beans; 2 slices bacon; 1 T. shredded green onion; 1 T. chopped green bell pepper; garlic powder, salt and chili powder to taste; 1 cup dairy sour cream; freshly ground pepper and cayenne. Makes 2 cups.

Drain and mash kidney beans. Fry bacon crisp and reserve. Add bacon fat slowly to beans, cook over low heat until fat is absorbed. Combine everything else and stir into beans. Serve with Fritos, corn chips or tostaditos. Just plain or seasoned salt is also supplied for those who shy away from dips. But even the most strong-minded will be tempted by this

Avocado-Shrimp Dip

One large avocado; 1 t. fresh lime juice; 1 t. scraped onion with juice; ½ tsp. salt or to taste; 4 drops Tabasco; 1 (10 oz.) can frozen shrimp soup, undiluted; ¼ t. horseradish. Makes 1½ cups.

Sieve avocado or place in blender with the remaining items. Put mixture back into halved avocado shell, cover top with a thin layer of mayonnaise mixed with lime juice to prevent discoloration. At serving, stir well, and surround avocado with raw vegetables (very young asparagus tips, green pepper strips and pickled embryo corn on the cob are appetizing tidbits.

The classic Mexican taco is a rolled, very small, tortilla first fried briefly in deep hot fat until just limp. Fill each with shredded chicken or fish (cooked or canned), highly seasoned with tomato paste and dried ground chili peppers. Roll and pin with toothpick. Or split large jumbo shrimp (cooked, but firm) lengthwise. Lay each half on a small quickly sauteed tortilla. Dampen with spicy jalapeno sauce made from pickled green chili peppers. Roll and pin with toothpicks. Dip in guacamole: mashed avocado pulp seasoned with peeled and seeded ripe tomato cubes, chopped canned green chilis, chopped ripe olive and crumbled fried bacon with fresh lime juice to keep it from blackening. All of these are eaten with one's fingers, so provide plenty of paper serviettes or small terry cloth towels dipped in hot water. As it is extremely difficult to make true tortillas at home, be sure to buy the small size ones which fortunately are canned. Viva Mexico!

Poetry Column

As we have had many requests for the continuation of our poetry section which Dora Hagemeyer edited for so many years, we have persuaded her to continue it again.

This time, however, it will not be a weekly column, but just a poem here and there in the paper whenever something suitable comes in.

Writers of poetry who are interested may send their work to the Carmel Pine Cone, Box G-1, with an enclosed stamped and addressed envelope. All poems must be original, unpublished and preferably short.

Painting of CHS Nearly Complete

At the last school board meeting, Walter Hinton, business manager for the district, reported on the progress made throughout the district of the long overdue maintenance work made possible by the passage of the tax override last spring.

Much has been accomplished, especially at the high school where the need was greatest, including painting of entire exterior as outlined in the original need program. The work is about one third finished. Value received has been good, at 5.4 per cent of total budget, compared with the 4.1 per cent average for the last five years.

Neil Jensen, currently serving as High School counselor, was appointed vice-principal of Carmel High School, sarting July 1, at no reduction of his present salary. This will allow the principal to devote more attention to the instructional program. If and when a vocational counselor is employed, it is expected that state and federal funds will be available.

The Association of Carmel Teachers, which has 137 active members, will be notified that they may submit names of five representatives on the Negotiating Council before February 1, 1968. The proposed school calendar will be submitted to the Council for study and recommendation.

Superintendent Dr. J. Harris Taylor outlined plans for teacher involvement in curriculum decisions which he felt was a "wise use of talent."

SLOW MARKET?
NOT IF YOUR PROPERTY IS
1. Offered at a price in line with current market value
2. Adequately advertised in appropriate markets; and
3. Competently presented to carefully qualified buyers

Perhaps you've been having trouble selling your property because one of the three is missing. May we help? We would particularly like to help you with your price, for no matter how much is spent on advertising, an overpriced house just will not sell. And when a home remains unsold too long, buyers fear something fundamental is wrong with it. Overpricing extends selling time and increases the inconvenience of fruitless showings. It prolongs your carrying costs such as taxes, insurance, interest on investment, repairs and maintenance—and it quite effectively prevents you from getting on to the next project in your life. No obligation of any kind in consulting us, of course.
